STATION NEWS

FOLLOW ALASKA PUBLIC MEDIA'S LIVE ELECTION NIGHT COVERAGE

Live statewide coverage, expert analysis, and real-time results—plus your chance to join the conversation

Join Alaska Public Media on Election Night for two hours of statewide live radio coverage, starting at 9 p.m. on November 5. Hosted by Lori Townsend, this special broadcast will bring together public radio journalists from across Alaska, along with political analysts, to provide in-depth coverage of this year's high-stakes races. With candidates vying for seats in the U.S. House, state legislature, and key local offices, the stakes are higher than ever as Alaska's voters make decisions that will shape the state's future.

Throughout the evening, we'll be hearing from reporters on the ground in communities across Alaska, sharing real-time updates on how the races are unfolding and what they're hearing from voters and candidates. Political analysts will join the discussion to help break down the results as they roll in, offering expert perspectives on what these outcomes mean for Alaska and the nation. Additionally, we'll take calls from listeners, giving you the chance to share your thoughts and engage in the conversation. Your voice matters, and we want to hear it!

Listen to the coverage on KSKA 91.1 FM or stream it at alaskapublic.org. No matter where you are, you can stay informed and engaged as the results unfold.

In addition to live radio coverage, Alaska Public Media will also offer comprehensive online resources. On our website, you'll find up-to-date information on the U.S. House and legislative races, along with detailed coverage of this year's ballot measures. For a deeper dive into election issues and candidate analysis, sign up for our Daily Digest newsletter to receive the latest stories straight to your inbox. You can also subscribe to Alaska At-Large, a newsletter written by Washington, D.C., correspondent Liz Ruskin, for insightful election analysis from a national perspective. Both newsletters are available for free at alaskapublic.org/newsletters.

LEONARDO'S WORLD UNVEILED

Ken Burns brings Leonardo da Vinci's genius to life in a captivating exploration of his art, inventions, and influence.

Ken Burns, celebrated for his deep dives into American history with films like The Civil War, Jazz, and The Vietnam War, now turns his lens to one of the greatest minds in history: Leonardo da Vinci. In a departure from his usual American-centric storytelling, Burns teams up with Sarah Burns and David McMahon for Leonardo da Vinci, a two-part documentary that explores the life and work of the Renaissance master. This new film brings Burns' signature style to the Italian Renaissance, weaving together art, science, and the timeless genius of da Vinci in a way that feels as fresh as it is insightful.

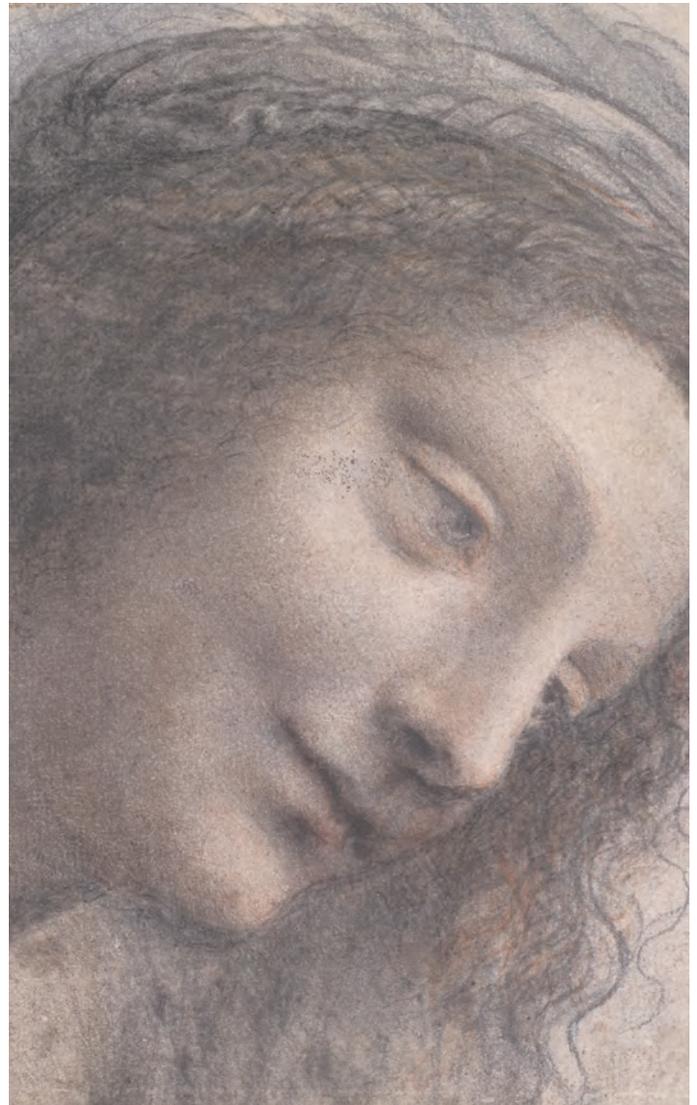

In true Ken Burns style, the film brings Leonardo's world to life through rich visuals and an eye for detail, yet it also ventures into new creative territory. Using split screens, the film layers images, sounds, and video to contextualize Leonardo's revolutionary work in art and science, giving viewers an immersive experience. Rather than a straightforward historical retelling, the documentary weaves together Leonardo's curiosity with modern perspectives from experts who reveal how his influence still resonates in today's scientific and artistic fields.

Italian actor Adriano Giannini gives voice to Leonardo's own words, while Keith David narrates. An original score by Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Caroline Shaw, performed by the Attacca Quartet, Sō Percussion, and Roomful of Teeth, adds emotional depth to the story.

The film explores Leonardo's early years as an apprentice in Florence and his most famous works—The Last Supper, The Mona Lisa, and Vitruvian Man—along with his notebooks, which offer glimpses into his fascination with anatomy, physics, and the natural world. Leonardo da Vinci doesn't just capture his masterpieces but delves into his relentless curiosity and groundbreaking ideas, such as his dissections of cadavers and designs for flying machines.

Throughout the documentary, scholars and artists, including filmmaker Guillermo del Toro, weigh in on Leonardo's enduring legacy. Del Toro remarks, "Leonardo understood that knowledge and imagination are intimately related," setting the tone for a film that celebrates the interconnectedness of art, science, and nature.

Don't miss this two-part series, airing November 18 and 19 at 7:00 p.m. AKST both nights on Alaska Public Media TV.. Or stream it starting on the premiere date at PBS.org, the PBS app, or with AK Passport.

QUANTUM LEAPS AND COSMIC MYSTERIES

NOVA's Decoding the Universe returns to explore the strange world of quantum mechanics and the fate of the cosmos.

How did our understanding of the universe change so radically in just a few decades? Decoding the Universe: Cosmos, part of NOVA's 50th anniversary celebration, explores this question, tracing the groundbreaking discoveries that have transformed our picture of the cosmos since the 1970s. Part One, which premiered in May, covered major astronomical revelations, including exoplanets, supermassive black holes, and the mysterious forces of dark matter and dark energy.

Now, in Part Two, premiering in November, Decoding the Universe: Quantum continues to unravel the mysteries of the universe. This episode delves deeper into the latest research on dark matter and dark energy, exploring what scientists know—and don't know—about these invisible forces that dominate our cosmos.

Tune in for Decoding the Universe: Quantum on Wednesday, November 6, at 8 p.m. AKST on Alaska Public Media TV. Part One is available to stream now, and the upcoming episode will be available to stream on PBS.org and the PBS App starting on its premiere date.

COMMUNITY NEWS

PROVIDING ESSENTIAL PROGRAMMING ACROSS THE STATE ARCS serves over 100 remote and rural communities in Alaska

The Alaska Rural Communications Service (ARCS), provides essential educational, informational, and entertainment programming to over 100 remote and rural Alaskan communities. Offering a blend of content from PBS (KAKM), NBC (KTUU), ABC (KYUR), and CBS (KYES), ARCS ensures access to quality TV and radio, bringing you the information and entertainment you need with no fees. ARCS currently has four channel streams available with PBS KIDS 24/7 and a second Variety channel being added in November.

Operated by Alaska Public Media (AKPM), ARCS is a crucial part of Alaska's Emergency Alert System (EAS), delivering life-saving alerts to remote areas.

While the ARCS system is operated by AKPM, the State of Alaska maintains ownership and oversight of the ARCS equipment. Most remote communities have ARCS relays that broadcast the signal over the air. Where broadcasts are not available ARCS can be accessed with satellite services through a satellite dish and receiver.

Find the channel lineup, schedule and more at arcstv.org.

AMERICAN COUP: WILMINGTON 1898 — UNCOVERING AMERICA'S FORGOTTEN INSURRECTION

The untold story of the only successful coup d'état in U.S. history and the violent suppression of Black political power in Wilmington, North Carolina, comes to life in this powerful new American Experience documentary.

In 1898, Wilmington, North Carolina was the site of a violent coup d'état—the only successful one in U.S. history. American Coup: Wilmington 1898, a new documentary directed by Brad Lichtenstein and Yoruba Richen, reveals the harrowing story of how white supremacists overthrew the city's democratically elected, multi-racial government. Through intimidation, violence, and murder, they dismantled Black political power, leaving a lasting legacy of racial inequality.

At the time, Wilmington was a prosperous, majority-Black city with African Americans holding key positions in government, running businesses, and thriving in skilled professions. The success of the Black community, however, incited anger among white supremacists who feared "Negro Rule." On November 10, 1898, armed white mobs stormed Wilmington, killing dozens of Black residents, burning property, and forcing thousands to flee. Black leaders, including newspaper editor Alex Manly, were targeted for challenging racist narratives, and many were exiled.

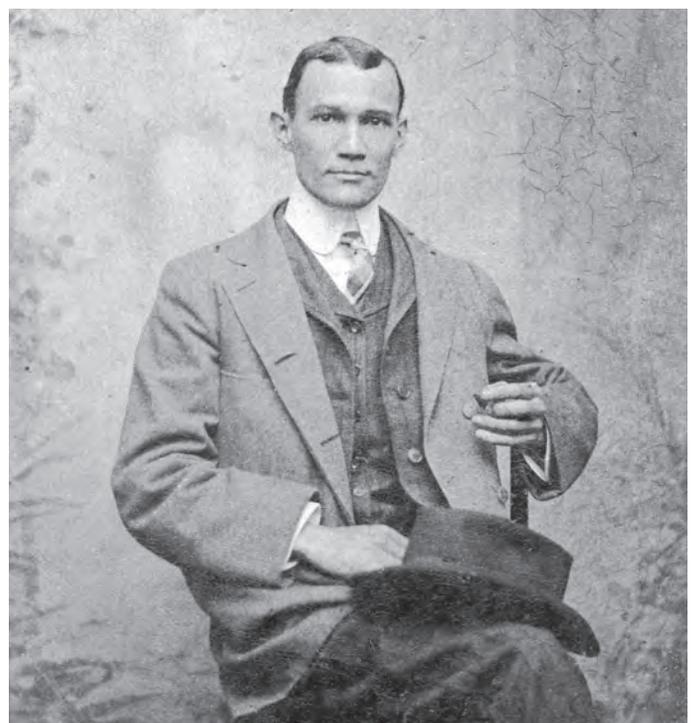

For decades, this brutal event was hidden from history. The documentary brings this story to light by featuring interviews with leading historians like Pulitzer Prize-winner David Zucchino and scholars from Emory, Yale, and UCLA. These experts offer crucial insights into the coup's far-reaching impact, which set the stage for Jim Crow laws and voter suppression throughout the South.

What sets American Coup: Wilmington 1898 apart is the depth of its storytelling, drawing on rarely seen archival images and first-person accounts to bring the events to life. The filmmakers blend historical documentation with creative visual elements to illustrate key moments of the insurrection. Narrated by Emmy-winner Keith David, the documentary also features moving performances by acclaimed actors reading eyewitness testimonies, adding a visceral sense of immediacy to the story. Complemented by an original score from Grammy-winning artist Rhiannon Giddens, the film immerses viewers in the atmosphere of 1898, while connecting it to the ongoing struggle for racial justice today.

Directors Lichtenstein and Richen describe the documentary as not just a historical recounting but a cautionary tale about the fragility of democracy. "It's important to tell the history of one of America's most egregious racist moments," the filmmakers explain, "and to bring to light the stories of the descendants seeking truth and accountability."

Tune in for American Coup: Wilmington 1898 on Tuesday, November 12, at 8 p.m. AKST on Alaska Public Media TV, or stream on PBS.org and the PBS App.
